

TEACH TO WORK

What is Teach To Work?

Industry professionals and corporate leaders motivated by giving their time and expertise to launch the next generation of young professionals and leaders are a perfect fit for the Teach To Work Project Based Mentoring® course!

They'll discover the power of mentoring high school and college students and best practices for success. This 19-lesson, self-paced program guides course-takers through a mentoring process incorporating project-based learning theories.

After completing the 60-minute online course, they're ready to work with a mentee to solve real-world problems wherever they exist – on school campuses, at the internship/workplace site, or in the community.

why take this course?

- ✓ Connect industry with the classroom, boosting interest and support.
- ✓ Help students gain industry-related skills.
- ✓ Allow students to lead projects, growing their leadership and professional development.
- ✓ Build communication, collaboration, and self-confidence for all involved.
- ✓ Provide clear evidence of achievement, offering a sense of fulfillment for mentors and mentees.
- ✓ Improve recruitment among socially conscious generations who value real-world experience.

85 percent of students with mentors maintained or improved outcomes related to educational expectations. Mentees have better grades, are less prone to skipping school, and are more likely to graduate.

— Patty Alper, author, Teach to Work
